Gifts support the sending and support costs for Michael and Rachel Ludwig, mission co-workers with the Eglise Evangélique de la République du Niger (EERN) out of Maradi. In a country where only about 30% of the population is literate, and only 1% Christian, Michael Ludwig works with the EERN to use the CHE (Community Health and Evangelism) model to help communities identify their greatest needs, and how to respond using their own resources. This CHE method is a very promising strategy for empowering pastors and evangelists, who will then play a vital role in bringing about community transformation. CHE can be used with respect to literacy, education, health, and general community development. The EERN views such a strategy as a way to serve Nigerien society - one of the poorest in Africa, and to reach out to it with the love of Jesus Christ. Those served by the church also become its vocal advocates and defenders, in a society that is overwhelmingly Muslim. Home presbytery: Scio Valley

The Social Ethics Network is a group of ethics and religion professors who teach in Presbyterian and other seminaries and colleges and help develop General Assembly social witness policy. Started after a consultation in 1987, the group usually meets annually at a seminar (1) to foster community among Presbyterian ethicists, (2) to learn about social witness on that campus through interaction with faculty, administrators and students, (3) to consult with one another on current concerns in church and society, and (4) to expand their teaching range and engagement with the church by examining recent and under-preparation Presbyterian social witness reports. The group also meets at the Society of Christian Ethics meeting. The ECO fund assists the ongoing development and interpretation of social witness policy by the Advisory Committee on Social Witness Policy or its successors. Support Pastoral Vocation efforts in the Office of Theology and Worship, particularly the Company of New Pastors. Company of New Pastors seeks to deepen and sustain the theological foundation of pastoral leaders focusing on the critical period of vocational formation, beginning in seminary and continuing into the first years of ministry, helping establish and nurture habits of theological reflection and spiritual formation to sustain a lifetime of ministry. The objectives of the Company of New Pastors are simple: to engage new pastoral leaders (and their mentors) in ongoing daily prayer, daily scripture reading and regular, ongoing theological reflection in community with others. Yet despite their simplicity, these disciplines can be transformational. Pastoral leaders who are, first and foremost, dedicated disciples can lead worshiping communities to be communities of disciples.

The Ethiopian Evangelical Church Mekane Yesus, South West Bethel Synod (SWBS) is partnering with the PC(USA) to share the good news of Jesus Christ with the Baale People of South West Ethiopia. The initiative for this outreach is the fruit of many years of prayer for the Baale People and a hope that this marginalized people group will have an opportunity to learn of God's love. A joint team of two SWBS evangelists trained in Cross-cultural mission and PCUSA missionary partners will join together in this outreach. Together, the team will reach out to the Baale community through grass root level community involvement (CHE), living in community with the Baale people, literacy work (Bible), and sharing the story of God's love as revealed in Jesus Christ. Your contributions are received with thanksgiving as you partner with PC(USA) World Mission and SWBS to transform lives through sharing the faith of Christ and to live and make real in community with the Baale People, providing the opportunity to share the future with new hope.

The South Sudan Presbyterian Evangelical Church (SSPEC) based in Juba, South Sudan is a sister church of the Sudan Presbyterian Evangelical Church in Khartoum. They came to the south with practically nothing in the way of personal belongings and are starting their lives and their congregations with little resources. Their faithfulness and desire to be a visible and vital witness to Jesus Christ is evident in the sacrifices they have made in order to help to subsidize the various ministries, new congregational development, leadership training, and flexible income generation endeavors of the SSPEC.

Your gift will make education possible for one million children! That is the goal of the "Educate a Child: Transform the World Initiative," affirmed by the 221st General Assembly (2014). The Assembly's action stood on the highest tradition of our Reformed heritage: education. Many of our children, God's children, are relegated to small futures by virtue of their race, their zip code or whether they are girls or boys. Powerful cultural and political structures conspire to relegate many children to substandard education - and then decry a high dropout rate that would perhaps be more accurately classified as a high "push out" rate. The urgency of this work is told in the cradle to prison pipeline, the rates of teenage suicide, in the lives doomed from their outset to despair and desperation and in the squandering of God's gracious gift of intelligence and imagination. Your gift will support efforts throughout our denomination including advocacy and public policy efforts.

The revolutionary events that began in Egypt in 2011, brought rapid and deep change to society, including unprecedented openness to the church's role in society. Yet, due to the limited capacity of the Church (of all denominations), more than 70% of Egyptian Christians do not have access to a church. The Evangelical Presbyterian Church in Egypt (founded by Presbyterian missionaries in the mid-19th century) is seizing this opportunity to expand its outreach ministries to all segments of society. The EPC is currently planting more than 66 new church developments in new cities throughout the country, as well as villages and remote areas. Likewise, the Evangelical Theological Seminary in Cairo is actively training pastors to serve in churches throughout the Arab World. This project supports these outreach ministries of the church in Egypt. Donations to this ECO will also help Presbyterian World Mission send mission workers who are committed to equipping and growing the Christian Church in Egypt.

Community Health Evangelism Support for Africa

Community Health Evangelism (CHE) is a training initiative that addresses the needs of the whole person - physical, spiritual and emotional. CHE uses an integrated training process that combines community development, health, evangelism and discipleship to reach out and transform communities. CHE training focuses on equipping individuals and communities to identify and address community issues using local resources. Community initiatives that arise out of CHE training include clean water, kitchen gardens, improved sanitation, pig farms, discipleship groups, community schools, immunizations, addressing issues of alcoholism and gender violence. Partner churches in Africa have begun implementing CHE in their communities and need support in covering the cost of trainings and providing on-going mentorship to new CHE communities.

Hands and Feet: Presbyterians Engaging in Communities is an on-going initiative to highlight and strengthen local and national efforts by the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) to facilitate community engagement and communicate God’s love. The project builds upon the grassroots, community work congregations, mid councils, and the national office are already doing; and dovetails with the biennial General Assembly gathering. We are now partnering with the Presbytery of Baltimore as we build towards the 224th General Assembly (2020) in Baltimore, Maryland.

The mission co-worker, based out of Maradi, uses the CHE (Community Health and Evangelism) model and works with local church leadership to help communities identify their greatest needs, and how to respond using their own resources. In a country where only about 30% of the population is literate, and Christians are less than 1% of the total population, this CHE method is a very promising strategy for empowering pastors and evangelists, who will then play a vital role in bringing about community transformation. The EERN views such a strategy as a way to serve Nigerian society - one of the poorest in Africa, and to reach out to it with the love of Jesus Christ.
